Easter

Grandview Church acknowledges that for thousands of years the Coast Salish peoples have walked gently on the unceded territories where we now live, work, worship and play. We seek a new relationship with the First Peoples here. One that is based in honour and respect and, especially in these days, seeks the well-being of all.

Wellbeing

Here are two resources that might be helpful during this time.

They can be found on our website at www.gcbchurch.ca/resources/covid-19-resources

Caring for Ourselves and Others in the Midst of a Quickly Changing World (a booklet)

Please note that this booklet is intended to offer suggestions with helpful ways to manage the stress of the current pandemic crisis, and its impact on everyday life. While written by a qualified therapist, it is meant to be helpful in caring for mental health through maintaining steadiness and balance in everyday living. It is not intended to replace care from a qualified mental health professional, or address ongoing anxiety and depression that may also arise in this experience. If you are experiencing additional stress that cannot be managed through practices like the ones suggested in the booklet, please do not hesitate to seek out professional help.

A Regular Rhythm of Care (one page)

These suggestions are generalized to help a wide variety of people, so read it and adopt 1 or 2 things at a time that fit for you. In a time of ongoing crisis, it is best to make small changes at a time, rather than try to overhaul your whole life and rhythms.
